

National Database of Accredited Qualifications (NDAQ)

The National Database of Accredited Qualifications (NDAQ) is a website that stores the details of all qualifications and units that have been approved by the Qualifications and Curriculum Authority (QCA) for use in England. It can be found by going to www.accreditedqualifications.org.uk

The website is easy to use and search, so it's a very straightforward way of finding information on qualifications offered by any of the Awarding Bodies. Searches can be done by qualification, unit, Awarding Body or keyword.

The unit content for all available units and qualifications is available through this website by clicking on the unit title.

Information from QCA's web-based accreditation system is transferred directly onto the website so it is accurate and up-to-date.

 New qualifications on NDAQ are indicated by a purple star.
